HOSSEIN REZVANI

From his base in Germany, Hossein Rezvani is reinterpreting the ancient art of carpet weaving for a modern, 21st century audience. Rezvani's company's aim is to create designs that are original, of the highest quality and instilled with a sense of permanence. The intention is not to manufacture mass-produced goods but, rather, unique carpets that can be passed on to future generations. The end result is handmade carpets of up to one million knots per m² that combine the heritage of Iranian carpet weaving with contemporary design, all with the 'made in Isfahan' stamp of quality.

THE DAVID ROCKWELL COLLECTION

David Rockwell, head of architecture and design firm, The Rockwell Group, has created a signature collection for The Rug Company. Launched globally in mid October, the David Rockwell collection comprises five finely crafted signature rugs, a tapestry wall hanging and a bolster cushion. Rockwell's collection was inspired by the breadth of work done by The Rockwell Group, and features conceits that have defined Rockwell's career thus far. The theatre and the stage, spring in New York City, kaleidoscopes, and design elements from major projects like Nobu are all represented, in what amounts to a very personal collection.
